Johnson earned a Ph.D. in electrical and computer engineering from Rice University, Houston, Texas, in May 1988, the first Black woman to do so. She then became a successful global technology leader and an IBM Chief Technology Officer (CTO). The story narrates the inextricable human dimension of dealing with various personal and familial challenges that people naturally encounter—with the highs and lows, and exhilarations and disappointments. From tragically losing her father at the age of two, to being raised by a single mother of four children, Sandra showed promise in math and science, and discipline and unrelenting drive at a young age. Raised in the deep South, she exhibited leadership even while in kindergarten and blazed trails in leadership while in junior high and high schools. Her early education was in segregated schools, with integration coming to her hometown as she started the 5th grade. Dr. Johnson's innate abilities led her to a summer engineering program for high school students, then on to college and graduate school. Dr. Johnson has made innovative contributions in high performance computing – supercomputers – and other areas of computer engineering. She has dozens of technical publications, over 45 pending and issued patents, and a plethora of recognition and honors in her field. The book is a fascinating and intriguing story that conveys in captivating and relatable ways the remarkable life arc of a resilient person from an underprivileged background who persistently overcomes whatever odds and challenges are encountered in her life. She's less than excited to find out that she'll be joining her mom's two-month documentary research trip to the Arctic Circle. Not quite the change of pace she's looking for. But Susanna's summer outlook abruptly changes when the film crew discovers a family living in the remotest reaches of the Northern Canadian wilderness. They've lived cut off from civilization for over twenty years, meaning that Benjamin—eighteen, with blue eyes and a smile as warm as the sun—has never known another life. He's a runner, too, and when he and Susanna meet, they strike up an unlikely friendship. Benjamin's existence has always been isolated, but together under the never-setting midnight sun, he and Susanna begin to imagine his life somewhere else. Somewhere together. With the Blood Wars ended, were-assassin Marshals are called to serve throughout the universe in easing cultural tensions instigated by the transition of cultures from zombified to free-thinking societies... Earthling archaeologist Aisling Bjorn never really considered juggling multiple husbands for were-assassin duty on planet Luvk—a world of Tiger folk subjugated by winged aliens from another dimension, but something more like learning the lost history of the Tiger culture to understand how an extraterrestrial winged species divided and conquered the Tiger realms is more her cup of tea. However, she's in store for a greater challenge than helping the Luvks reclaim their independence. There's a shortage of marriageable females for the large broods of gorgeous Tiger princes. The friction caused by mating problems threatens her sanity as the warrior Lords vie for possession of not only a mate but a powerful political pawn—her, the Marshal whose beauty rivals that of the most marketable princess. And mates the Lords all wish to be. Alas, with every turn in life, we sacrifice a bit of our souls for the greater good. Even to the darkness...Blessed are those who just give into the darkness of Luvk, because there's no room for a woman's sanity when surrounded by Tiger Lords. Enormous. Muscled. Sexy leather pants. The authors present their study of how the racial achievement gap continues to afflict American schools more than fifty years after the formal dismantling of segregation. Their book addresses both the knotty problem of academic disparities and the larger question of the color line in American society.

There are no other books that even come close to comparison or match the zenith ideals and health guidelines prescribed by the author to achieve world peace, respect, dignity, humility, human rights acknowledgment, and blessings meant for every child born in this world, and the later versions of these children as adult \"world citizens\" to be assisted, guided, protected, and one day reunited with and live in perpetuity with their ultimate mentor, Father's Eyes. The author, during the writing of this book, realized and acknowledged all these ephemeral truths stated above. These truths not only motivated the author to share his own sagacious wisdom and insights, but also to perform the vital and essential research, studying our world's history, to most clearly elucidate what individuals have been the greatest mentors in this world, what mindset will most likely lead to success in all benevolent endeavors, and lastly, what has, in the past, made our world great and what is currently necessary to remain on this most desirable path of making our world great now and in the future forever! This masterfully written novel is a phenomenal read for all times and all generations. In summary, this novel is meant to both inspire and motivate all individuals, and offer precious insights, experience, health-maximizing guidance, entertainment, and enlightenment for all ages, all non-religious and religious individuals, all cultures, all skin colors, all societies, and all countries, this generation, and all generations in perpetuity.
